Located about .9 mile north of U.S. Route 40 at Grantsville, the house stands on the west side of Maryland Route 669, Springs Road, in northern Garrett County.

The house is an early-mid nineteenth century frame structure, two and a half stories high, with a stone foundation, an ell on the back, and one one story frame porch that stretches across the principal facade (east side) and along the south end. It has a metal covered gable roof whose line runs north/south and is pierced by two internal brick chimneys and a bell hung on heavy framing. The principal facade has five bays symmetrically arranged around a six panel door. The principal windows have wide frames and double-hung wooden sashes with six-over-six lights. The end walls have single sash attic windows with six lights. The exterior was covered with aluminum siding in recent years.

A shallow two and a half story pavilion the width of the space between the principal windows projects from the north end and has small single sash, four lights windows along the sides. Now a part of the interior rooms, the original use of this pavilion, probably not original, is unknown.

The one story porch along the facade and south end has a shed roof and chamfered posts. The balustrade has a heavy rail and squarish balusters. The porch appears to date from the time the house was built.

The interior was altered over the years but probably retains much of its original decorative treatment.

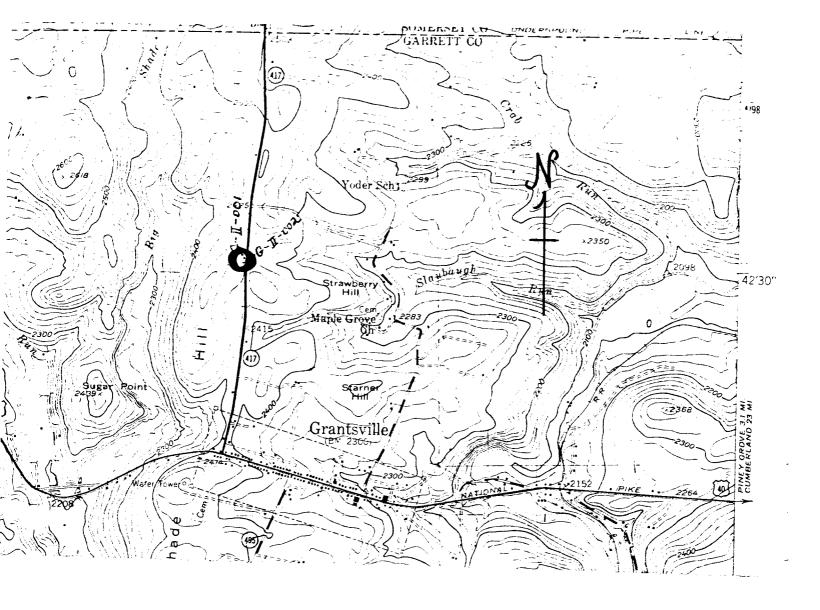

The building is structurally sound. Unfortunately, when the exterior was covered with aluminum siding in recent years, the trim around the windows and the roof was removed.

This frame house is representative of a type of early-mid nineteenth century dwelling that is commonly found throughout northern Garrett County. The houses are basically large rectangular blocks of frame construction with symmetrical facades and center hall floor plans, usually a four-over-four arrangement of rooms. Front porches appear to have been common. This house form, which is a basic plan found in the mid-Atlantic area (Pennsylvania and upper Maryland), was probably brought to northern Garrett County in the nineteenth century through the Mennonite migration from the Lancaster County area in south central Pennsylvania.

The land on which the house stands is a part of a parcel known as "Non Pariel", originally laid out about 1774 for William Deakins, Jr. 1 (Allegany County Deed Book 8, p. 62.) Subsequently, the property was acquired by Upton Beall et al by a patent from the state in 1800. Elisha Williams conveyed the land to Samuel Yoder in 1851. Emmanuel Hershberger purchased the site from Yoder in 1871. The present owner acquired the property in 1960 from his parents who purchased it from the Hershberger family about 1928.
